THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The Struggle

Washington, Aug. 30.—FOR WEEKS to come the most important and significant struggle in Washington will be between two fundamentally divergent groups each eager to determine the means by which we shall deal with the inevitable unemployment problem arising from cancellation of war contracts and reconversion generally. The character of our Federal fiscal policies and the national political trends may depend upon which side prevails.

ONE GROUP, led by the labor lobbyists and the professional liberals, insists that the unemployment, resulting from the stoppage of war plants, will be upward of 10,000,000; that without Government aid this is not temporary but permanent; that it is not possible for private enterprise to provide the necessary jobs; that the only recourse is a huge Government-financed public works program, plus other governmental stimulation and direction of industry. With this theory not only the liberals and the labor leaders are in accord, but also the Socialists, the Communists, the spenders and the radicals generally, of all shades.

THE MEASURE around which all these elements are rallying is the Murray-Wagner so-called "full employment" bill, which, avowedly distrustful of private enterprise, opens wide the door for vast public expenditures and assumes that the nation cannot survive without government domination and control of business. Essentially, this is the experiment upon which the British are now launched by an extremely slender popular vote despite the large Socialist majority in the House of Commons. It is the core of New Dealism, the goal toward which Mr. Roosevelt, with the enthusiastic support of the solid radical, racially resentful and irresponsible elements in the country had been moving for more than twelve years. The Truman Administration now appears committed to the bill and, with certain modifications and qualifications, so are a few New York bankers like Mr. Beardsley Ruml, and Mr. James P. Warburg, who is active in the CIO's Political Action Committee.

IN THE existing situation it is the policy of the principal Murray bill strategists to exaggerate the number of unemployed, to threaten, as did CIO leader Philip Murray, "socialization" of industry; to disparage the good faith and productive capacity of private enterprise; Continued On Page Two

MacARTHUR LANDS IN TRIUMPH AT ATSUGI AIRDROME IN TOKYO; TAKES PERSONAL COMMAND OF THOUSANDS OF ALLIED OCCUPATION TROOPS ALREADY IN JAPAN

"Surrender Plan Going Splendidly," Supreme Allied Commander Comments—Every Prospect of Accomplishing Capitulation and Surrender Without Unnecessary Bloodshed—Triumphant Arrival Climaxes Day in Which Thousands of Airborne Troops Pour From Transports

By Howard Handleman
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ATSUGI AIRDROME, TOKYO, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, with his favorite corn-cob pipe clenched firmly in his mouth, landed in triumph at Tokyo's Atsugi airdrome today and took personal command of the thousands of Allied occupation troops already in Japan.

The Supreme Allied Commander—dramatically fulfilling his "On to Tokyo" pledge—alighted from his special transport plane, the "Bataan," precisely at 2:03 p. m. (10:03 p. m. EWT).

After pausing for a moment to survey the crowd of high-ranking officers and GIs who greeted him enthusiastically, the five-starred general, taking his pipe from his mouth and smiling broadly, said: "From Melbourne to Tokyo is a long road . . . a long hard road. But his looks like the payoff."

In the presence of an honor guard of veteran United States fighting men in full battle dress, MacArthur was greeted by Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army.

MacArthur's usually stern visage was wreathed in smiles and he made no effort to conceal his overwhelming happiness and optimism on the historic occasion of his arrival.

"The surrender plan is going splendidly and according to pre-arranged specifications," MacArthur declared. "In all outlying theatres fighting has practically ceased and the enemy is preparing to capitulate and surrender."

"The Japanese appear to be acting in complete good faith. There is every prospect of accomplishing the capitulation and surrender without undue friction and unnecessary bloodshed."

MacArthur looked spruce and trim as he stepped from his plane, ready to plunge into the job of personally directing the vast forces at his command.

The triumphant arrival of the Supreme Commander came as the climax of a day which saw thousands of airborne troops pour from a constant stream of transports landing at three-minute intervals at Atsugi and amphibious forces swarming ashore to take over Jap installations along Tokyo Bay.

MacArthur wore dark glasses against the bright sun during his brief stay at the airdrome. He was completely relaxed as he faced Eichelberger whose Eighth Army forces will land Saturday in the Yokohama area to augment present occupation units.

"Hello, Bob," said the five-starred general as he warmly greeted Eichelberger.

Urges Motorists To Curb Their Enthusiasm

Secretary of Revenue David W. Harris today urged motor vehicle operators to "curb enthusiasm and emphasize safety," in the first post-ahead. In a statement released to Labor Day celebration just day, Secretary Harris said:

"The first real holiday period since Pearl Harbor is just ahead. Next Monday is Labor Day, but undoubtedly many thousands will take advantage of the period of relaxation from Friday until Labor Day night. Thousands of automobiles will travel on our streets and highways in the three-day holiday period. With gasoline restriction lifted longer trips will be taken. Old cars and worn tires will be strained to the utmost. The strain on out-of-practice drivers will be equally as great. This contributes to grave danger of numerous traffic accidents, causing loss of life and injury."

"This can only be averted by extreme care on the part of motor vehicle operators and pedestrians who, for the first time in nearly four years, are confronted with dangerous traffic conditions of pre-war days."

"There is no need of the loss of a single life or injury to anyone. Observe the law, the rules of the road, and give a thought to the other fellow. Have your car checked for mechanical defects that may cause accidents. Check your tires but above all else watch your speed. The motor laws will be strictly enforced and offenders severely punished. Curb enthusiasm and emphasize safety and there will be no Labor Day traffic tragedies in Pennsylvania homes."

"Hello, Bob," said the five-starred general as he warmly greeted Eichelberger.

CITATIONS GIVEN A FEW HUNDRED WAR BOND SALESMEN DURING PROGRAM AT "PENNSBURY"; FORMER U. S. SENATOR J. R. GRUNDY SPEAKS

Mrs. John Leslie Kilcoyne, Hostess at the Affair, "Salutes" Those Active in Lower Bucks Co. During Seven Drives—J. E. Bloesinger, County Chairman, Praises Fine Record of Lower Bucks County in Sale of Bonds

PENNSBURY, Aug. 30.—Tribute was paid to several hundred volunteer war bond drive workers when they gathered from all sections of Lower Bucks County yesterday afternoon on the grounds of "Pennsbury," here, the hostess on this occasion was Mrs. John Leslie Kilcoyne, war bond chairman for Lower Bucks County and in charge of the seven drives that were conducted during World War II.

Saluting the volunteer saleswomen and salesmen who helped out Bucks County "over the top" in the drives, Mrs. Kilcoyne expressed her appreciation for the untiring efforts of the countless individuals who aided in the drives. Citations were presented on this occasion to the individuals and organizations as a token award, and they were addressed by former United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy, of Bristol.

Approximately 125 gathered on the spacious lawn along the Delaware for the affair. They were led in the singing of the national anthem and of "God Bless America" by Percy G. Ford, Bristol. Then followed the invocation by the Rev. Fr. Albert Gloss, of St. Mark's Church, Bristol.

J. Edward Bloesinger, county chairman of war bond sales, who served as chairman of the program, was introduced by Mrs. Kilcoyne. Mr. Bloesinger bespoke for himself and other officials appreciation of work on the part of those assembled during the past seven drives. He added: "This is not by any means the final meeting. There is more work to be done, and we're counting on you to do that job," as he referred to the Victory Loan Drive which will open in October. After outlining Bucks County's "firsts" as far as bond sales, payroll deductions, etc., are concerned, he stated that in five of the seven drives Bucks County went over its quota by more than 20 per cent. He gave unstinted praise to "those of you who did the honest-to-goodness work."

Mr. Bloesinger introduced in turn Ezra B. Whitman, Jr., deputy manager of the War Finance Committee of Eastern Pennsylvania. The thanks of state headquarters for war bond activities in lower Bucks County were extended by Mr. Whitman. "Bucks County would never have made the record it did if it wasn't for you workers in lower Bucks County," he informed. Mr. Whitman also reminded of the Victory Drive, dates of which he gave as October 29-December 8, the goal being two billion dollars in series "E" bonds. "We have every assurance we can do the job again," he commented.

Tribute was paid by Mrs. Kilcoyne to Mrs. Louis C. Spring, Bristol, who sold $375,000 worth of war bonds, "more in value than any other man or woman in lower Bucks County," also to Mrs. George Garretson, who sold the greatest number of bonds in all of Bucks County. Mrs. Garretson sold 169 bonds in one drive alone, it was announced.

Appreciation for Mrs. Kilcoyne's "splendid and untiring efforts" in all of the drives was given publicly by Mr. Bloesinger.

The chairman of the ceremonies called upon A. H. Queen, requesting him to tell of the setting up in the McCrory Store, Bristol, of a war

'American Public' Also Blamed for Pearl Harbor Disaster

Washington—President Truman declared today that the American public is as much to blame for the tragedy of Pearl Harbor as any of the individuals mentioned in the War and Navy reports.

President Truman declared: "The whole thing is a result of the policy the country itself pursued."

"The country itself was not ready for preparedness," the President said. "When President Roosevelt tried to obtain Congressional approval for preparedness he was stifled. When he made statements on preparedness he was vilified."

"I think the country is as much to blame as any individual in the final tragedy of Pearl Harbor."

Predicts 6,000,000 Jobless By End of Year

Washington—War Mobilization Director John W. Snyder told Congress today that there probably will be six million persons jobless by the end of the year and eight million by early Spring when large numbers are discharged from the armed forces.

Snyder made his estimate before the House Ways and Means Committee in urging approval of the Unemployment Compensation Bill providing benefits of $25 a week for six months.

"No other single measure now before Congress is more vital to success in easing the shock of postwar readjustment," he declared.

Wainwright Arrives in Manila

Manila—Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, liberated hero of Bataan and Corregidor, arrived in Manila today.

Looking tired, worn and much older—but smiling cheerfully—he debarked from a Flying Fortress that rushed him from Chungking en route to Tokyo, where he will witness final surrender of Japan.

He walked with a slight limp, carried a malacca cane and his face was deeply lined, but his movements were alert, his eyes sharp and keen.

He was met and greeted by Sergio Osmena, Filipino President. Wainwright, led through a cheering crowd, was whisked away to his hotel for a brief rest before resuming his flight tomorrow to Tokyo.

WORK IS STARTED ON ONE PORTION, SUPER-HIGHWAY

Work Started on Section to Relieve Traffic from High Bridge at Tullytown

EXTENDS 1.6 MILES

Contract Price for the Job Is Listed at Sum of $208,000

Work preliminary to the actual construction of one and six-tenths miles of the proposed super-highway, which is to extend from the entrance to the Bristol Cemetery to Morrisville is now underway.

That section of the super-highway on which work has been started will extend from the bridge over the tracks of the P. R. R. in Tullytown Borough, to a point out 200 feet east of Township Road or above what is commonly known as the Fabian Farm on Route 13, east of Tullytown Borough.

Offices have been opened by both the contracting firm, Kingston Construction Company, Shenandoah, and the Pennsylvania State Highway Department. The contract price is given as $208,000.

This portion of the proposed super-highway is being constructed now so as to relieve a dangerous bridge which carries traffic of Route 13 over the tracks of the P. R. R. above Tullytown and is known as the "Tullytown High Bridge." This bridge has been condemned as unsafe for traffic so the State started the building of the highway to relieve traffic over the span.

The section to be built now will be only two lanes in width or 24 feet. The proposed highway will be four lanes in width when completed and will have a four-foot divider between the lanes.

It is said that it is unlikely that the one and six-tenths miles will be completed this winter. There is a great amount of fill required to bring the roadway up to grade. The amount of fill is given as 90,369 cubic yards.

The work being done now is the staking out of the route and the leveling of trees and bushes. Concrete pipes for drainage are being delivered on the scene and these are to be placed.

THE END IN SIGHT

For the nation's housewives the pleasantest item in the news is undoubtedly the report that meat rationing may be ended. The likelihood that nylon stockings will be available by Thanksgiving or Christmas is enough to cause a happy flutter in the feminine community. But meat, or rather the lack of it, is still the top concern of those who carry the nation's market baskets.

It seems almost too good to be true, at first glance, that the situation could improve so rapidly that it may be possible to cut meat points sharply on September 1 and drop meat rationing entirely before next month is over. But the shift from war to peace has produced two radical changes in the situation.

The supply of meat available for civilians has suddenly expanded with the release of Army reserves and a sharp curtailment in Army buying. At the same time the civilian demand for meat seems destined to drop with the end of the boom in war industries.

Between this temporary decrease in demand and sharp increase in supply the meat shortage may be automatically solved. The one remaining uncertainty is the amount of meat which will be sent abroad. But Secretary of Agriculture Anderson must surely have taken this into account when he predicted that a heavy run of cattle to market will free the housewife of the most onerous segment of the ration program which still remains in force.

ENCOURAGING THE IDLE

One of the first things Congress will be asked to do when it reconvenes is to act speedily upon President Truman's request for a uniform unemployment compensation law. This law would provide benefits of at least $25 a week for a minimum of 26 weeks for those not working. That would be at least $650 for each idle person.

"Dear Alben" Barkley, the Kentucky wonder who staged a one-day revolt against New Dealism several years ago, and who seems to be determined to remain docilely obedient if it kills him, says he is ready to attempt to force this bill through the Senate.

But there are many signs of Congressional discontent with this bill. There is a strong belief in Congress that unemployment compensation benefits on such a scale would encourage unemployment at a time when jobs might go begging. It is argued that displaced war workers would be reluctant to take relatively low paying jobs when they could draw $25 per week and go fishing.

The makers also realize that the unemployment compensation system, which is state operated, has been abused in the war years. Housewives who have held jobs for a short time have returned to their kitchens and drawn compensation.

There is a point at which not to encourage idleness. Many no longer encourage idleness. Many members of Congress, as well as citizens at home, are convinced that $25 a week is considerably beyond that point.

The Great Game of Politics

to forecast a long period of deep depression involving starvation wages and many millions of idle, though willing, working men—all in order to expedite passage of the Murray-Wagner bill and promote the enactment of much other "social legislation," such as the Pepper 55-cent an hour minimum wage proposal, special unemployment compensation for veterans, etc., etc. Behind this program are massed strong political and publicity forces. And it is easy to understand how every congenial demagogue and timid politician should be attracted in this direction.

ON THE other side are the conservative Democrats and Republicans who believe that the period of unemployment due to reconversion is temporary; that, at its peak, within the next nine months it will not go above six or seven million; that before the end of 1946 private industry will have made its adjustments and, unless blocked by governmental stupidity, such as the Murray-Wagner bill, will be in position to go ahead full speed. Their contention, as voiced by Mr. Baruch, is that once that nine-month period is over, we will be embarked upon a ten-year era of unprecedented prosperity during which there will be full employment—more jobs than men to fill them and during which, too, we shall be able not only to balance our Federal budget but to reduce our terrific national debt to manageable proportions.

ALL THIS, Mr. Baruch says, we can do if we use "only half the sense God gave us." Actually, he says, we can do it if we use only 4½ per cent. But neither he nor any other balanced man believes we can do it if we proceed on the assumption that the private-enterprise system is a flop; that government must take over and direct business; that national financial solvency is unimportant; that the known and obvious economic facts mean nothing; that American industry which produced so marvelously in the war cannot produce equally well in a peace period—with a demand for its products greater than ever before in our history.

THE Murray-Wagner bill, one of the chief advocates of which is the crystal-gazing Mr. Henry Wallace, negatives belief in the adequacy of private enterprise, insists that this business of providing jobs is a task the Government must take over. This is an idea repugnant to American principles, far more in harmony with the totalitarian doctrines of the dictators. Certainly, in view of the failures of the Roosevelt Administration to cure its depression by action along these lines, it is one upon which we should not further venture except as a last resource. Under the circumstances, it is discouraging to have Secretary of State Byrnes endorse the Murray-Wagner bill, even if he does say that he has not had time to read it thoroughly. His explanation of how our foreign policy is tied up in this internal problem seems a little strained. The real importance of Mr. Byrnes' statement is that it reflects the administration position and sustains it. Mr. Truman said he, like Mr. Byrnes, had not had time to read recent press conference declaration for "full employment" meant this it is still so. It is a hard bill for bill. Last June when asked about a politician to oppose.

Lawn Mowers—Prewar Versus Postwar

Will Curry isn't falling for those pictures of a postwar life of ease. He was sweating over his lawn mower the other day, when somebody shows him pictures of a mower that runs under its own power.

"Shucks," says Will, "I like a lawn mower that gives you some backtalk and exercise. It gets the old blood circulating and works up a wonderful thirst. Then," Will adds with zest, "there's nothing in the whole world that tastes as good as a cheerful glass of beer!"

From where I sit, there's a lot of good sense in what Will says. A little honest effort never hurt anybody. And there should be more to our post-war plans than how to make life comfortable and easy.

Outdoor work—work you do with your hands and your back—ought to be part of everybody's post-war plans. And on a hot day, as Will says, there's always that sparkling glass of beer as a reward!

IN THE HOUR OF TRIUMPH

Behind us lie 3½ years of deadly struggle in which, with God's help, we have prevailed.

So, today, we celebrate a victory.

After the celebration, what lies ahead?

For most of us, the outlook is a bright one. If we will simply use the brains, the will, the energy, the enterprise... the materials and resources... with which we won our war, we can't fail to win the peace and to make this the richest, happiest land the world has known.

For most of us, the years ahead are bright with promise. But for others of us—and, ironically enough, their part in bringing victory was a major one—the years to come must bear a different look.

In America today are hundreds of thousands of injured men. Men with neatly pinned-up sleeves and trousers. Blinded men. Men with clever iron hooks instead of hands. Worst of all, men with hurt and darkened minds.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. We can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

Far away from America today are millions of Americans. As we would be, they're on fire to get back—to their wives, to the children some of them have never seen, to their jobs.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. And we can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

This is our day of triumph. But it's theirs, too—the injured men, the men who are still far away.

Let's not forget them, in our just rejoicing. And the one way we can help most to care for our wounded... to bring our veterans home... to give them a fresh start in the country they fought for... to care for the families of those who died before the victory was won... is simply this:

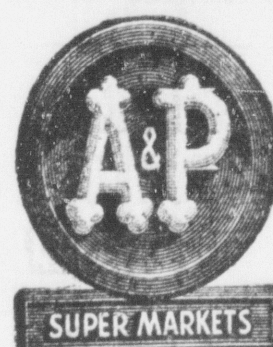

Buy all the Bonds you can. Keep all the Bonds you buy.

and booth which eventually became the headquarters of drives in Bucks County. Mr. Queen that in three years over one million dollars worth of bonds had been sold through that booth. His share sold 40 per cent of all bonds in the company's 200 stores, as added.

After mentioning that nearly 52 million dollars worth of bonds had been sold during the seven drives.

Bloesinger called upon Harold Kirk, former chairman of war bond committee in Bucks County, to make brief remarks. Other inductions included Mrs. Bloesinger and John Leslie Kilcoyne.
day's benediction was by the Rev. Samuel Gaskell, pastor of Glytown, Emille and Fallsington Methodist Churches.

Former U. S. Senator Joseph R.
Grundy, the speaker of the day, gave a brief but comprehensive review of the financial status of the United States from the time of World War I. to the present. He called that the capacity in which
s. Kilcoyne has been serving during the war just ended is the one as that he fulfilled during World War I, adding that while drives in the earlier days were spoken of in millions, that those of the current war ran into billions.
h consequently heavier duties falling upon the workers.

Mr. Grundy then traced the history of the country from the end of World War I to the crisis world finances which led to the depression of 1929, then continued the era when the country became "governed by Bureaucrats, the disposition to enforce such a body politic."

That the United States will be led upon to dominate and direct the affairs of the world of the future, with cessation of hostilities, is another point brought out by the former senator. Then while congratulating all present on their patriotic endeavor in the past rough bond sales, Mr. Grundy said that "in spite of all the accomplishments, with great problems before us, I ask that you give your full weight of interest in order that our democratic form of government be maintained here, endeavor in order that as the war return they will find that democratic form of government resisted. See to it that men are not led to public office who know not such a form of government."

After reminding the audience of the huge national debt piled up through the years under bureaucracy, the speaker urged upon all the realization of the important role before every citizen, adding before yourself to a study of the democratic form of government."

EDGELY A. C. WINS FOR CHAMPIONSHIP FIRST OF 3 GAMES

"Clint" Purcell Enters the Mythical Hall of Fame By Performance

GAME ENDS 9 TO 0

Only One Croydon Player Reached as Far as 2nd Base in Third

CROYDON, Aug. 30.—The Edgely A. C. won the first game of a three-game series to determine the championship of the Bristol Youth League last evening on the State Road field as "Clint" Purcell entered the mythical hall of fame by pitching no-run, no-hit ball. The score was: Edgely, 9; Croydon, 0.

So airtight was Purcell's hurling that only one Croydon player reached as far as second base and that was in the third when Wong walked and stole second base. The only other Croydon player to reach base was Styles on an error. The remainder of the Croydon batting order was retired in order, only sixteen batters facing Purcell in five innings.

Purcell was aided by some wonderful playing in the outfield. Twice Joe Lukens made dazzling catches in left as did Walt Rittler to rob Croydon batters of would-be base hits.

The Edgelyites made a total of 11 hits with MacSherry leading the hitters by getting two out of two. The winners pounded "Spooky" Sperling for six runs in the first two frames.

Laundry and drying rooms, library and lounge. Their food is served cafeteria style with a varied and well-balanced menu in charge of a dietitian. Four girls are assigned to a table in the mess hall.

Henderson Hall has its own band, buglers, and guard company. There are many forms of recreation to be enjoyed within the compound. There is a large recreation hall where shows are given and "movies" are shown every evening and in addition an invitation dance Saturday nights. There are modern bowling alleys, badminton and tennis courts, baseball diamond and competitive ping-pong. There is also a well-stocked Post Exchange where the girls have been accustomed to purchase many commodities not available to the average civilian. Henderson Hall has its own post office operated entirely by the Women's Reserve.

A new and modern swimming pool was recently dedicated and is supervised by the members of the headquarters staff qualified as senior Red Cross swimming and life-saving experts. Sergeant Spencer is assigned to this detail and is on special duty three hours each day in addition to her regular duties, she having recently passed the Red Cross requirements for life saving.

Colonel Streeter, Commandant of the Women's Reserve of the Marine Corps, has her offices on the compound, although the entire headquarters organization is under the direction of Major Ferguson. Both of these officers served in the Marines as non-commissioned (Marinettes) officers in the last war.

There are many rumors afloat as to the length of time the Women's Reserve will be maintained now that the war is over, especially as Sergeant Spencer stated that the Marine Corps has recently acquired 20 acres of ground adjacent to Henderson Hall. She expects to be among the last who will be discharged because of the special nature of her duties in connection with the maintenance department.

GIRLS TO PLAY FOR BENEFIT OF RESCUE SQUAD TONIGHT

ON LEEDOM'S FIELD

Chas. Rathke to Toss Ball Out If Burgess Schmidt Cannot Be Present

In a benefit game for the Bucks County Rescue Squad, the Bristol All-Star girls' softball team will meet the Trenton All-Stars, this evening on Leedom's field, starting at 6:15 o'clock.

The local girls will be picked from the Bristol Girls Softball League while the Jersey outfit is composed of players from the Trenton Playground League.

The localities will be handled on the field by Frank "Chickie" Fields who has handled the local all-star team for three seasons. He will be assisted by Miss Naomi "Brownie" Reed, coach of the Fallsington High School team which completed a very successful year this past summer. Miss Reed will also play first base for the All-Stars, a position she held while playing with the Hunter team in the Bristol League.

The Bristol line-up will be chosen from the following girls: Colleen "Curly" DeLong, Rita McHugh, Theresa Gallagher, Betty Livingston, Laura Hachofer, Grace Chichester, Flossie Wright, Dorothy Dransfield, Harriet Lodge, Betty Lippincott, Anne Vitale, Bernice Roberts, Hazel McCue, Helen Smith, Margie Swangler, Philomena Petruzzio, and Mary Werkheiser.

Indications point to a sell-out crowd, according to Russell Marshall, of the Samuel Jackson Company, who is in charge of ticket sales and Harry Eckert, of the Rescue Squad, who is publicity and promotion manager.

In the absence of Burgess Jacob C. Schmidt, the first ball will be thrown out by Charles Rathke, coachman from the Sixta Ward. He will be introduced by Alfred E. Lewis, personnel director of the Manhattan Soap Company, and also president of the Bristol Girls Industrial Softball League. "Bill" Alexander, of Fleetwings, will operate the public address system and be the official announcer.

During the game, the Rescue Squad will parade their equipment and have it on display during the game.
